

57th Fighter Group Restaurant reopens at PDK

Posted by Janice Wood · October 21, 2009

The 57th Fighter Group Restaurant has reopened at Atlanta's DeKalb-Peachtree Airport (PDK).

Under the new ownership of Pat Epps of Epps Aviation, the World War II-themed restaurant has updated its menu and facilities.

The 57th Fighter Group Restaurant menu features a variety of popular American cuisines. Many of the restaurant's long time favorite dishes, including beer cheese soup, have reappeared on the menu.

A destination for pilots and aviation enthusiasts alike, guests can enjoy watching airplanes from their tables in the dining room, lounge or the patio at the edge of the runway, according to company officials. The aviation experience is enhanced with headsets placed throughout the restaurant so guests can listen in to the PDK airport tower communications. Diners flying into the restaurant will enjoy shuttle service compliments of Epps Aviation.

For more information: The57thRestaurant.com or 770-234-0057.

Would you like to receive a daily digest of all the stories we post to GeneralAviationNews.com? If so, The Pulse of Aviation is for you. Just give us a bit of information and enjoy.

(Required fields are bold)

Email Address ***

First Name

Last Name

City

State

Print Friendly

Categories : Products

Leave a Comment

Name (required)

Mail (will not be published) (required)

Website