The 57th Fighter Group Restaurant Reopens at DeKalb-Peachtree Airport

ATLANTA (October, 20) -- The lights are a little brighter at the southern end of the runway of Atlanta's DeKalb-Peachtree Airport (PDK) with the reopening of the 57th Fighter Group Restaurant. This World War II aviation themed restaurant offers the closest upscale casual dining experience to the airport complete with an extraordinary view of airplanes taking off and landing.

The 57th Fighter Group Restaurant offers a true dining experience from the moment guests arrive on the grounds winding past military jeeps and airplanes before entering the building resembling a European bombed out farmhouse. Under the new ownership of Pat Epps of Epps Aviation, the restaurant has updated its menu and facilities with an extensive refurbishment while retaining the charm and memories enjoyed by guests for decades.

"The return of the 57th Fighter Group Restaurant will bring a much needed entertainment component to DeKalb-Peachtree Airport. Atlanta's most popular general aviation facility once again has a convenient restaurant that is welcoming for business meetings and special events as well as a relaxing meal before take-off," says Pat Epps, President of Epps Aviation and Epps 57th Restaurant LLC.

The 57th Fighter Group Restaurant menu features renditions of comforting foods that meld a variety of popular American cuisines. The blend of traditional fare with a local regional twist creates a diverse palate appealing to a wide range of diners. Many of the restaurant's long time favorite dishes, including beer cheese soup, have reappeared on the current menu to welcome back fans and diners.

A destination for pilots and aviation enthusiasts alike, guests can enjoy watching airplanes from their table in the dining room, lounge or the patio at the edge of the runway. The authentic aviation experience is enhanced with headsets placed throughout the restaurant so guests can listen in to the PDK airport tower communications. Diners flying into the restaurant will enjoy shuttle service compliments of Epps Aviation.

For those who want to enjoy the food of the 57th Fighter Group Restaurant but may not have time, the restaurant plans to offer a special catering menu for flights departing PDK Airport and deliver to all FBOs on the field. Catering orders can be placed in advance by calling the restaurant directly.

The 57th Fighter Group Restaurant is located at 3829 Clairmont Road, Atlanta, Georgia 30341. The dining room serves lunch Monday through Friday and dinner Monday through Saturday as well as Sunday brunch. A light casual menu is offered in the lounge until closing Monday through Sunday. Private special event space is available for banquets and large groups.
